

CJJ's service to the field of juvenile justice and to its members is made possible through contributions from federal and state government, private foundations, the business community and concerned citizens. We welcome new contributors and assure you that your generosity will have important results. Everything we do is dependent on fund raising, including the following activities, among others:

- Issuing reports on the nationwide status of juvenile justice with recommendations and ideas for change and improvement;
- Informing the Congress and state decision-makers about the interests, needs and concerns of youth and families in the juvenile justice system;
- Convening conferences to explore important topics and bring together a multidisciplinary group of juvenile justice advocates and professionals;
- Providing training, technical assistance and information resources for state juvenile justice advocates and professionals;
- Working intensively with state and local jurisdictions to implement reforms, such as detention reform;
- Educating the public about trends and issues in juvenile justice.

Please consider making a fully tax deductible charitable contribution to CJJ's individual contributions campaign, the Circle of Leaders. All contributions, large and small, are welcome.

Please complete this form and send it back to CJJ (address below). Include a check payable to "Coalition for Juvenile Justice," or we may invoice you if you prefer – please indicate the amount of your contribution below.
