CONFERENCE TITLE
Breaking Cycles: Disrupting Systemic Inequalities to Create Lasting Change

DATES
Oct. 31 – Nov. 1, 2023

LOCATION
Omni Louisville Hotel
400 S 2nd St
Louisville, KY 40202

DESCRIPTION
Every year, CJJ hosts a conference focusing specifically on the issue of racial and ethnic disparities (R/ED) in the juvenile justice system. These conferences give juvenile justice stakeholders from around the country an opportunity to share strategies and explore solutions to this serious problem. This year’s conference will bring together stakeholders working to fight disparities at the local, state, and national levels, as well as the larger juvenile justice community. For more information about CJJ, please visit www.juvjustice.org.

CJJ’s 2023 R/ED Conference will focus on ways that young people and their communities, as well as law enforcement, court officials, advocacy groups, and State Advisory Groups can work together to combat racial and ethnic disparities (R/ED). Specifically, the conference will focus on:

- What changes can be made at the system’s front end to reduce DMC?
- How can law enforcement, attorneys, the judiciary, and community leaders work together to combat the crisis?
- What role do investments in community, young people, and healing play in addressing R/ED?

The primary goal of CJJ’s 2023 R/ED conference is to help system stakeholders - including policymakers and state R/ED Coordinators - combat racial and ethnic disparities through peer-to-peer learning, and expert training. Workshop sessions will provide participants a hands-on opportunity to explore solutions that have been shown to work in other jurisdictions.

Workshops will be slotted into one of four tracks:
Workshops will be grouped into tracks. These tracks may include the following:

Communities in Action — workshops in this track will focus on the role communities play in addressing and remediying racial and ethnic disparities. For example, a successful workshop proposal might examine successful DMC reform efforts and the importance of securing community buy-in.

The Role of State Advisory Groups and Related Staff - workshops in this track will focus on ways that State Advisory Groups, R/ED Coordinators, and juvenile justice specialists are addressing R/ED, either by prioritizing projects for financial investment, or by working on advocacy efforts. For example, a successful workshop proposal might detail a training curriculum or community diversion program the SAG has helped fund.

Youth and Family Voice - workshops in this track will focus on ways to ensure that youth are given a voice in programs and projects that aim to eliminate DMC. For example, a successful workshop proposal might outline how young people are using art to help educate their community about implicit bias and its impacts on young people.

Communities Rising - workshops in this track will focus on both the challenges Louisville and other cities face, and the work that’s being done to address those challenges. This track is being developed in conjunction with experts who are on the ground in Kentucky and Louisville. For example, a successful workshop proposal might highlight programs that use mediation to improve relationships between young people and law enforcement.

Successful workshop proposals will include some or all of the following elements:

- Overview of the issue and its current status supported by data and/or evaluation results
- Learning objectives and tools/resources that will be provided/referenced during the session (e.g., sample memorandum of agreement, agency regulation, legislation, practice toolkit)
- Current and future implications for policy, practice, and/or opportunities for advocacy
- Explanation of the role of key juvenile justice stakeholders or call to action
- Outline of how the content will be presented and use interactive methods

About the Coalition for Juvenile Justice (CJJ)

CJJ envisions a nation where fewer children are at risk of delinquency; and if they are at risk or involved with the justice system, they and their families receive every possible opportunity to live safe, healthy and fulfilling lives.

CJJ is a nationwide coalition of State Advisory Groups (SAGs) and allies dedicated to preventing children and youth from becoming involved in the courts and upholding the highest standards of care when youth are charged with wrongdoing and enter the justice system.

CJJ members include concerned individuals, practitioners, advocates and youth who voluntarily serve at the state and national levels. CJJ is governed by an Executive Board of national and regional officers. All of CJJ’s formal positions on policy and related matters are developed and approved by a super-majority of the CJJ Council of State Advisory Groups (SAGs). The Council comprises the Chairs or Chair-designees of SAGs holding membership in CJJ.
